DEAR FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION:

Although trans fats are even more damaging to your health than saturated fats, food manufacturers are not required to list them on food labels. There is a proposition currently before the FDA to require the trans-fat content of foods to be listed on labels alongside saturated fat. It's high time the public was made more aware of this significant health threat. I am supporting for this proposition to the FDA in DOCKET NUMBER 94P-0036

Sincerely,

Elizabeth A. Wuthrich
